Chugai and other member corporations of the Japan Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association (JPMA) have begun disclosing their information, based on the guidelines issued by JPMA since 2013 to broadly publicize to society that they are practicing corporate activities based on high ethical and moral standards through securing transparency in conducting corporate activities with medical institutions and other entities as well as patient groups.

Chugai's mission is "to dedicate itself to adding exceptional value through the creation of innovative medical products and services for the benefit of the medical community and human health around the world." "The Chugai Business Conduct Guidelines," which sets a standard for the Chugai Group's corporate behaviors and employee activities, place fair trade and information disclosure as its foundation, and encourage the employees to conduct daily business operations accordingly. Chugai will continue to engage in even more transparent corporate activities based on these guidelines.
